

Are you looking to re-enter the workforce after a career break?

Apply today for a career coaching returnship program and get the career and professional experience you need to re-kickstart your career with confidence.

What is a “returnship program”?

Women face unique challenges when it comes to making successful re-entry into the workforce. Life changes, and so do goals and career aspirations.

Now there’s an equally unique opportunity for women looking to come back to work. theturnlab, a forward-thinking Toronto agency, has partnered with tellent to launch a return-to-work and coaching program designed to facilitate re-entry into the workforce.

How the program works

The program consists of a 12-week paid contract position with theturnlab, paired with career coaching from tellent. The position involves approximately 24 hours of on-site work and training each week, spread out over three days according to what makes sense for you and theturnlab. Ongoing support and coaching will be provided throughout the duration of the program.

The nature of the work you’ll be doing with theturnlab depends on you and your experience levels and interests. As an all-in-one agency, theturnlab offers opportunities that range from public relations through to data analyst. They will collaborate with you to develop a work plan that delivers both the training and experience you require and supports the needs of their team.

How the program helps you

As part of your position with theturnlab, you will receive:

- A paid honourarium
- Flexible working hours
- Real-world, job-specific training and manager support from theturnlab’s team of industry experts
- Build confidence, gain deeper experience, and acquire broader depth of knowledge for your career toolkit
- Potential opportunity to acquire permanent role with theturnlab

tellent
